Institutionalizing Gender Based Violence Response in Nepal (P180665)

PIU Dhankuta

1. Background:

Gender-Based Violence (GBV) is a critical human rights, social and protection issue that extremely affects women and girls. The Government of Nepal has adopted a zero-tolerance policy to address GBV, and has laws and policies aimed at addressing GBV issues, including the Domestic Violence Act, and GESI Policy at federal, provincial and local levels. The Local Government Operation Act 2074 BS, mandates local levels to prevent and address GBV. Accordingly, the local level entails the responsibility to review and monitor programs against GBV and to provide necessary services, including referral, protection, counseling services, and legal assistance to GBV survivors.

In this context, the Ministry of Women, Children, and Senior Citizens (MoWCSC), with support from a World Bank-funded initiative, is implementing the Institutionalizing Gender-Based Violence Response in Nepal (IGBVRN) project. This project aims to enhance access to multi-sectoral GBV response services for women and girls across six local governments (Ramgram and Tilotama in Lumbini Province; and Umlabari, Mechinagar, Dhankuta, and Bhotkhola in Koshi Province) and strengthen comprehensive, survivor-centered GBV response systems particularly in the health, legal, psychosocial, and referral service sectors. The project focuses on improving service delivery, building institutional capacities, and addressing behavioral change among first responders to ensure that GBV survivors receive timely, ethical, and coordinated support. A dedicated Case Manager will play a crucial role in these efforts, serving as the primary point of contact for survivors, coordinating appropriate support services, and upholding/overseeing principles of confidentiality, dignity, and respect throughout the response process.
